ANNUAL DRAFT OF
Cumberland Shorthorns

Foreword

review of the establishments where real Shorthorn improvement is under way would be sadly incomplete were it not to include the name of Joseph Miller & Sons. Like all predecessors who have accomplished something really worth while in livestock improvement they adopted in the beginning and have faithfully worked toward a definite objective. Seldom indeed do we encounter instances where the breeder has such a clear conception of what he is endeavoring to accomplish.

In this instance the blood of the Cumberlands was the material chosen. Royal Cumberland 2d, a son of Cumberland's Last, was the bull which marked their commencement. In their hands he produced from a daughter of Imp. Queen Bess, herself a granddaughter of Scottish Archer, the second herd bull, Hopeful Cumberland, whose use not only proved gratifying, but furnished the Millers with the distinction of being able to breed a bull good enough for their own use, which was an important part of their program. Choice Cumberland, the present chief herd bull, represents further proof that they are working toward the right objective, and in this son of Hopeful Cumberland, from a Gipsy Maid daughter of The Choice Of All, backed by a double infusion of the blood of Baron Cruickshank and intercepted with a cross by the great Merry Hampton, they have not only a bull with a show record but one that is leaving progeny which marks further advancement. Throughout this line of Cumberland sires the three impressive features in them and their progeny are in their order: breed character, depth of fore rib and smooth shoulders.

Having used the second generation of their own breeding and the third from the same paternal line of ancestry, the question of an assistant to Choice Cumberland involved the next difficulty. It was feared that further intensification of blood from this direct line might interfere with the progress which was so well under way. This bull was found in Dale Cumberland, a grandson of Cumberland's Last through Cumberland Dale and Masterpiece, from a granddaughter of Norton's Imp. Banker. This bull was at first used cautiously, but to observe the class of calves he is now siring is proof conclusive that he is not only an exceptional breeder, but that coming through another line of Cumberlands he represents a sympathetic cross with the daughters of the Cumberland sires which preceded him.

Thus it is proper and fitting that the cattle they are producing, the result of objective so well defined and so thoroughly their own handiwork, should be known as "Miller-made Cumberlands." The operations of few breeders reflect such credit as the accomplishments of Joseph Miller and his three sons. Already their name as breeders carries particular weight in the ancestry of present day Shorthorns, and it is a safe prediction that they have only fairly started in the good they are to render the breed.

The use of such sires would have fallen short of the desired mark if it had not been accompanied with a deep understanding of breeding and feeding principles. To observe the intimacy evidenced on the part of each member of the firm with the breeding herd is indeed refreshing to their visitors. The selection of matrons to serve as the molds for this improvement has been given particular attention. They have not only brought into their breeding ranks daughters of many of the great breeding bulls known to the breeds, but their adherence to and insistence upon type and feeding qualities is to be credited with a full portion of their success.

Their sale of last May will be recalled as one of the foremost of the season, which tended to further elevate the opinion in which the work of these men is held by fellow breeders. For their coming sale it must be said that marked improvement in the sale offering has been provided for. Many matrons, quite the superior to anything listed in their previous sale make up the attractions among the females. In bulls, they never offered a better individual or prospect for a herd bull than Cumberland's Choice, offered solely for the reason that he cannot be used to advantage, being a full brother to Choice Cumberland. A comparison with his older brother shows this youngster carried more bone, is slightly more masculine, and is of deeper covering. Furthermore, another year has gone by, permitting of further progress in their use of the Cumberlands and this sale will offer more of their own work than they have been able to extend on previous occasions.

The offering in its entirety merits the attention of serious-minded breeders of judgment. Those who take advantage of this occasion will find it a day well spent.

WALTER L. MILLER,
of The Breeders Gazette.

Gipsy Cumberland 2d is almost the duplicate of her mother which stands in a class by herself in producing show calves. This heifer isn't in show flesh as we thought her too valuable to take any chances on her breeding but she is safe to the service of Superior Cumberland.
